Land use issues occupy council

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

Two controversial land use issues occupied the members of the Romulus City Council during their regular meeting Monday evening.

Members of the council agreed, after some discussion, to postpone a final decision on a requested rezoning of 3.74 acre parcel of land on Colbert Street for six months.

A request of the Lake Erie Stone Company for a special approval land use providing for the construction of a limestone terminal-storage facility on 19.1 acres of a 58-acre parcel of land on Inkster Road between Wick and Goddard roads was narrowly approved by council members.

The first request, by land owner Ray Nelson, caused the majority of controversy. Members of the Romulus Planning Commission had recommended the denial of the expansion March 21 due to the neighborhood opposition.

The council members acted following a public hearing on rezoning the property from R1B (single family residential) to M-1 (light industrial) for expansion of Nelson's Fly-A-Way Parking lot. Several neighborhood residents were present, and voiced strong opposition to the proposal. In response to this opposition, Councilman Junior Bloock motioned that the council delay making a decision to give Nelson a chance to work out differences with concerned residents.

Chairperson Banks stated that to her knowledge, a majority vote was adequate for such actions because it did not involve rezoning.

Councilmen Randolph Gear and Ellis Pennington cast the only negative votes on the Block motion.

Councilman Pete Bergeron requested that the residents be notified of the date of the council vote.

The Lake Erie Stone Company request for "special approval use" authorization was granted by a 4-3 vote of council.

Romulus Planning Commission members had recommended approval of this request.

Councilmen Bergeron, Block, Pennington and Jimmie Raspberry voted for the proposal, with council members Mary Ann Banks, Gear and William Wadsworth dissenting. Following the vote, concern was raised as to whether or not the council needed a two-thirds majority vote to carry the motion. Chairperson Banks stated that to her knowledge a majority vote was adequate for such actions because it did not involve rezoning. Wadsworth requested a second opinion on the matter.

Local church marks 50th anniversary

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

Inside the small white church known as the Ball Road Tabernacle a lot of singing, praying, preaching, shouting, and testifying has gone on for the past 50 years.

Earlier this month many of the present and past congregation members gathered in a special service to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the church at 7007 Ball Road in Romulus.

Former pastors and church members from 10 states were in attendance and spoke of the history behind the church and shared memories of many happy times.

The initial worship service in the church was on the first Sunday of May in 1938. There were 31 people present in the 20 X 20 foot building. The Rev. Aaron Ensign was the first pastor.

Ensign and his wife, Harriet, laid down the foundation for the church on the property with the help of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Kalbes and a few other friends.

Some friends and the people on Ball Road were asked to donate money for a down payment on lumber to construct the building. Eventually the necessary materials were purchased and the church became a reality.

Within the next five years a 20-foot addition was constructed and by 1940, an additional side was added to the church making it an L-shaped building.

The Ensigs resigned in 1943 and several pastors followed. The current pastor, the Rev.

Carl Swanger, assumed leadership of the church in October 1984. He and his wife, Erdine, came from Chillicothe, Ohio, and are committed to the church and its future. "It has been the means of a better lifestyle in Jesus because of our introduction to this people and this wonderful church," according to Swanger.

Though small in size, the church has a close-knit and loyal following.

According to Carl Sherman, church treasurer, people from Ball Road are scattered all over the United States. Sherman also said that the only living member of the original congregation, Batty Wright, is now living in Taylor. She is no longer attending Ball Road Tabernacle but remains interested in church activities.

Other long-term members included Sam and Ethel Chambers, who have been members for 45 years. "Ball Road church is very special to us," said Sam Chambers. "We were remarried on our 50th anniversary at Ball Road. Reverend Norman Guilford performed the ceremony. Our children were there. We invited the whole church and almost everyone came."

Follow that dream

Local teen finds success in auto renovation project

By RITA DERBIN
ANP Staff Writer

It was 1983 when Jerry Warren, now a 17-year-old junior at Romulus High School, first set out to rebuild his dream car, a 1968 black Camaro Super Sport.

According to his father, Percy, the project was intended to keep his son occupied and provide a little father-son companionship. His son, however, soon became consumed with the project and took over.

"Sometimes it seems like Jerry breathes, sleeps and, I wouldn't be surprised if he eats, pieces of that car," he explained. "I'm glad he's interested in something and he's keeping up his grades in school."

Warren went on to complete the task of restoring the body, brakes, and the steering. "The engine is my pride and joy," Warren explained. "I put it together with my own hands." Warren also put a lot of hard work into converting the car so it takes regular pump gas and makes it more economical to drive, he said.

On May 14 all Warren's hard work paid off. His car, which had been chosen by Frank Chapp, his auto lab instructor at school, to represent the high school, was entered in an auto show along with cars from 17 other high schools around the area at the Michigan Career Institute. The cars were judged by a professional from the International Showcar Association and Warren was awarded first place. He received a 2-foot high trophy, a tool box with tools, a case of oil and several other car accessories.

"This trophy doesn't make up for all the work I put into the car," Warren said. "But having people come up to me and say, 'That's a nice car' really makes me feel good because of all the work I put into it."

Both Warren and his father think the competition is a good idea and hope it becomes an annual event so high school students have a place where they can learn how to show their cars and get advice and comments from a professional. The judge from ISA did not judge as technically as he would have for professionals but looked more at the appearance and workmanship of the cars, according to Warren.

Warren said that people sometimes think that he was given the car but he has been working hard after school and during the summers earning money to buy the parts needed.

"When he's in school I look for parts for him but he has paid for everything," said the older Warren. The student is now working at an Amoco station through the high school co-op program and during the summers works at Block's Produce Market. "I've put in hours pushing the broom and doing carry outs for that car but it's worth it," Warren said.

"People wonder how I got a car like that but anyone can have a car like that. If you set your mind to it and put forth an effort you can have anything you want," Warren said. "On my hat and the front license plate of my car is the motto, 'Follow That Dream' and that's what I did. And I got the car."

Warren is against any kind of drinking and drugs and said his car is a testament to that. "Take one look at my car and see where I got the money to do that. I spent my money on my car, not on having a good time drinking. After all that hard work I don't want to go and crash my car because I was out partying."

Warren does appreciate and acknowledge all the support he has gotten from his family but especially his father. "My dad has always worked with me on projects. He and I are more like brothers. He got me interested in cars. We work as a team, and he's always been there for me."

Warren and his father have also been active in drag racing. Warren, however, makes it clear that there is no place for racing on the street. "If he races, it's done at the drag strip—no street racing for Jerry."

Belleville area residents receive Medals of Merit

Two Belleville area students and the Showcase Students at Belleville High School were honored Sunday, May 1 with Congressman William D. Ford's (D-Taylor) 12th annual Medal of Merit.

The awards are given to outstanding youth living in Ford's Congressional district. In all, nine individuals and three groups were lauded.

Presentations were made by the national lawmaker, during a ceremony attended by members of the honorees' family and friends.

"At a time when our nation cries out for young leaders and selfless citizens, I can think of nothing more fitting than to honor young people who have already learned to give of themselves for the good of others," Ford said. "It's an honor for me to be in the position to recognize their achievements and to wish them future success."

Ford also had high praise for the members of the citizens' committee who helped in the selection process. The group was chaired by Donna Hall, of Van Buren Township.

Medal of Merit recipients each received a gold medallion with the Congressional seal on it. The award was pinned on by Ford.

Among those honored and the reasons for the awards were:

• Rebecca Lynn Morgan, of Haggerty Road, Van Buren Township.

Morgan was given the award in the 14- to 18-year-old age group. She is the daughter of James and Charlotte Morgan. Her sponsors were William S. Chizmar, principal of Haggerty Elementary School, and Joy Powers, a teacher at the school.

A junior at Belleville High School, Morgan, 17, was honored for her dedicated volunteer work at a community group home that houses several mentally handicapped residents, Ford said.

She was also lauded for her involvement as a student volunteer at the Haggerty Elementary School, where she has earned the respect of her teachers and the love of the children, because of her dedication, enthusiasm, humor and willingness to venture into new endeavors.

• Tobi Russell, of Wear Road, Sumpter Township.

Russell was given the award in the 14- to 18-year-old age group. She is the daughter of Clarence and Sharron Russell. Her sponsor was Cynthia Coleman, a counselor at Belleville High School.

A junior at Belleville High, Russell, 16, was honored for her volunteer efforts with the local Kiwanis chapter during a recent Easter flower sale, Ford said.

She also has volunteered her services at a local convalescent home, offering shut-ins her friendship and companionship.

• The Showcase Students at Belleville High School were sponsored by Sarah Boelter.

"In today's society, many people discuss the negatives of modern-day high school students," Ford said. "Often, these comments reflect a strong prejudice toward minority students. To counteract this negative image, the Showcase Students have taken on the project of speaking to community groups about the facts facing today's society."

The impact of the Showcase Students, Ford continued, has been positive in helping the community to recognize that media coverage of fights, knives and guns in high schools across America does not reflect the general high school population and, in particular, the minority student.

The students were lauded for their composure, confidence and skill displayed while speaking in front of community audiences, which has helped to offset the negative image and helped many to recognize the talents and skills of the minority student, said Ford.

Other winners in the area were:

• Jennifer McCarthy, 14, of Regene Street, Westland.

McCarthy, the daughter of Denis and Pat McCarthy, was honored in the 14- to 18-year-old age group for her heroic actions while traveling with family and friends during a van fire in northern Michigan.

The incident resulted in a totaled van, but the family members were saved from serious harm due to Jennifer's actions.

• Richard L. Story II, 15, of Annapolis, Wayne.

Story, the son of Richard and Linda Story, was honored in the 14- to 18-year-old category for his active involvement with his Civil Air Patrol unit.

During the Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday season, Richard also helped with the sale of Goodfellow newspapers and food drives.

• Allison Michelle Schram, 18, of Fredericksburg Street, Canton Township.

Schram, the daughter of W. A. and Susan Schram, was honored for her leadership and involvement in school and community activities.

A real Michigan Week

Mark McGlynn (left) and Megen Madole were crowned king and queen of the Romulus Diaper Derby last Saturday during Michigan Week. Mark, who outcrawled Madole's twin brother, Mitchell said (with the help of an interpreter), "That was fun, but I want to eat now." Mark planned on sharing the juice he won with his sisters, while he made the most out of his new status as "king." Megen Madole was a little embarrassed about the race and said, (with the help of an interpreter), "Mama, how could you do this to me?" Nevertheless, Megen planned to enjoy her role as "queen" and continue to show her brother who's boss. Church

Sherman and his mother, Alma Sherman, are also long time members of the church. Sherman said, "For almost 45 years I have been a part of Ball Road along with (sister church) McGuire Street Mission. I have never been sorry and I could never begin to tell all of the things that I have been in-involved in or would I I want to...no person has the right to come in contact with so many special people in one lifetime. I count it a privilege and an honor to be a part of Ball Road's history."

Ball Road Tabernacle is affiliated with the Wesleyan Armenian Doctrine. It is interdenominational and open to all people. Sherman said that people come from all over the area because "it's a friendly, singing church-hillbilly style."

Delay tactics cited in trial

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

After the prosecution questioned Bungalow Motel owner-manager Charles Marlowe from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. last Thursday, Henry M. Scharg, attorney for accused police murderer George Lemons exchanged fiery dialogue with assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Barbara Smith, accusing Smith and her colleagues of "delay tactics."

Lemons, his two brothers, Roy and William and their mother, Alberta Easter are charged in the first degree murders of three Inkster police officers who were slain at the motel on July 9-10.

The trial was expected to resume yesterday in the courtroom of Circuit Judge Richard Hathaway.

Marlowe had been in the witness stand all of the day Thursday and was questioned by prosecutor Douglas Baker and Smith. He was asked to relate the events prior to and on that fateful day of July 9 when the three officers: Sgt. Ira Parker, officers Daniel Dubiel and Clay Hoover were killed in his motel.

Marlowe had apparently offered contradictory statements during the pretrial and trial phases of his testimony. He had said that he had informed a police officer, Tom Freeman, that the Easter family was departing from the motel. Later he said he didn't recall making that statement.

Reportedly, it was Freeman who telephoned the Inkster Police Department and informed officers that Easter and her sons were about to make a quick exit, leaving behind motel bills totaling approximately $5,000 that led the local police to the motel.

Easter and her son, Roy, were wanted for questioning on a bad check that they had issued to a local used car dealer. Police had obtained a warrant for their arrest and it was during the execution of the warrant that the three officers were slain.

Because of what appeared to be conflicting testimony by the motel owner, Scharg asked Judge Hathaway to caution Marlowe "not to discuss this case with anyone until we have an opportunity to cross examine him (Tuesday morning.)"

"They (the prosecution) obviously dragged his (Marlowe's) testimony on, discussing holes and fences," Scharg continued, "so that we can't cross examine him today. This was strategically and calculated by them so that they will have the entire weekend with him. It is totally improper for them to go back over (his) testimony. He is subject to cross-examination, and delaying this gives the prosecution an unfair advantage."

"We're in the middle of cross-examination and I want the court to protect the credibility of this witness," Scharg said.

Smith countered that it was proper for the prosecution to refresh a witness' memory.

"Statements like these can be expected to come from people like Scharg," Smith continued. "Every time we raise a point, he objects. And I resent this, Mr. Scharg."

Hathaway settled the controversy by allowing Marlowe the opportunity to refresh his memory on what he said during the pre-trial phase of the case by letting him read the transcript of the preliminary ex-

Inkster vies for airport funding

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

City officials and council have decided to join neighboring communities in their quest for airport-related business expansion.

Metro Airport is attracting millions of dollars in construction, tourist and related business to the metropolitan Detroit area and city fathers would like to see some of that wealth rub off in Inkster.

Last week, council members voted to approve an application to the Michigan Department of Commerce for an Economic Planning grant. The grant would help provide funding to assess the impact of airport expansion on Inkster's Industrial Parks.

In making her presentation to council for the city's participation in the application, Lillian E. Randolph, community development director, said that the communities are pulling together in hopes of receiving the grant.

Inkster, along with the cities of Westland, Romulus, Taylor, Wayne, and Huron Township are participating in a targeted market effort to attract airport

Without this cooperative effort, none of the cities have the resources to finance and support a study, list or brochures of this magnitude.—

related business, Randolph pointed out. The Michigan Department of Commerce has invited the city to apply for an economic development planning grant of $25,000 for the project provided the jobs benefit low and moderate income households and there is substantial public and private investment, Randolph informed council.

The project will cost $80,000 with Wayne County providing $35,000 and the participating communities donating $4,000 each. Inkster's share of the funding is also tagged at $4,000 and, according to the community director, it is available from the Beech Daly Tax Increment Finance District.

Randolph pointed out that TIF revenues have accumulated to the tune of $28,607 during the 1987 fiscal year.

What the motel owner did tell the jury that the defendants had owed him approximately $5,000 in back rent and attempted to give him a rifle in lieu of payment, which he refused. He said he attempted to get the family evicted from the motel rooms and was in the process of doing so when the tragic killings occurred.

Asked whether he knew that the family had stockpiled weapons in their rooms, Marlowe replied that he had no idea that they were.

The motel owner also described the events leading up to the deaths of the officers. He related to the court that he and his wife were terrified when the shooting erupted. That they took cover in the motel office. He said that in the early minutes of the siege he didn't witness any of the police officers who responded to the motel returning gunfire at rooms 105 and 106 where Easter and the Lemons had resided.

Easter contends that the three officers were slain from incoming bullets fired by officers outside the motel room.

The jury also heard testimony from Det. John McGruder who was in charge of the investigation of the bad check case. He said the check, signed by Roy Lemons and Alberta Easter, for the amount of $286.40 was issued to a Rent-A-Jalopy, 21998 Michigan, Inkster in May of 1987 which was returned because of insufficient funds.

ating a list of prospects contemplating expansion as a result of the Metropolitan Airport, Willow Run Airport expansion plans. Participating communities must identify improvements each city must make to attract specific industries and marketing brochures and prospects for each community portraying their industrial park facilities.

"Without this cooperative effort," Randolph stated in her report to council, "none of the cities have the resources to finance and support a study, list or brochures of this magnitude."

Enjoying Good Health

Dr. Al-Najjar is a member of the Oakwood Hospital Medical Staff, and the medical director of the Oakwood Hospital Partial Psychiatric Hospitalization Program.

SOME PHYSICAL HEALTH CONCERNS MAY INDICATE PSYCHOLOGICAL CAUSES

By Mufid B. Al-Najjar, M.D.

We usually see a doctor when we have pain or are feeling ill. Physical problems get our attention. However, not all of us are as quick to act when our pain is mental.

Mental and physical health often relate to each other. Untreated psychological dysfunctions can and often do surface in some physical manner.

EMOTIONAL FACTORS

When a physical problem such as dermatitis, hives, or peptic ulcers fail to respond to medical treatment, the basis of the problem may be an emotional one. The disease may have to be treated by considering the emotional factors in the treatment plan.

When medical treatment alone does fail, added anxiety and distress compounds the problem — thus, the beginning of a vicious cycle.

DENY, IGNORE

Before I became a psychiatrist, I was a family practice physician in a small town, and the only doctor in town. I often wondered why only 20 percent of the community members came to me for help. Later, as a psychiatrist, I discovered that people tend to deny or ignore problems for a number of reasons. They may be afraid to face a concern; they may not know where to go to get help; or they just may not be aware that they need help.

AVAILABLE HELP

Whatever the reason, it's important to know that there is good help available for those who are struggling with a physical health problem that won't respond to treatment, or an emotional problem that's hard to face.

One of the best ways to get help is through Oakwood Hospital's psychotherapy day program called the Oakwood Hospital Psychiatric Partial Hospitalization Program (PPHP).

Located in the Medical Office Building, which is connected to the hospital, the program offers daytime psychotherapy through individual therapy and group therapy.

In next week's article, I will discuss additional physical signs and symptoms, and phobic disorders which indicate the possibility of a mental health problem. I will also describe more about Oakwood's psychotherapy day program and how it can help improve the quality of your life, both physically and mentally.

Yankee Air Force member dies at 64

Memorial services for Joseph Anthony Hass, area business owner and model plane enthusiast, were Saturday, May 21 at the Yankee Air Force hangar, at Willow Run Airport, Ypsilanti.

Mr. Hass, 64, of Westland, turned his love of models into a business when he founded the Wayne Hobby Center in 1960. He retired in 1985.

He died of lung cancer Sunday, May 15 in Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

"He always kept on the move and gave a great deal of himself to others and to his clubs," said his son, Robert. "He was into model-making since he was a kid. The work does require a great deal of skill in miniature carpentry. He went out of his way to work . . . to introduce children into model-making. He did that very generously."

An instrument-rated licensed pilot, Mr. Hass belonged to several model airplane clubs, including the Academy of Model Aeronautics, the Flying Pilgrims, the Plymouth Signal Seekers, Wayne Rib-crackers, Indian City, Michigan Radio Control Association and American Model Yachting Association and was a charter member of the Yankee Air Force.

During World War II, he served in the Navy on PT boats as quartermaster first class.

In addition to his son Robert, Mr. Hass is survived by his wife, Margaret; son, Joseph; two daughters, Mary Knight and Patricia Bartlebaugh; four grandchildren and a brother.

Truck safety a concern of Faust

Three truck safety bills were passed Thursday by members of the state Senate. The truck safety package was sponsored by state Senators William Faust (D-Westland) and Richard Fessler (R-West Bloomfield).

The two were the first recipients of cards from motorist constituents calling for improved truck safety legislation presented to legislators by AAA Michigan President Jack Avignone. Seventy-five-thousands cards were delivered.

Candidates announce election intentions

Three local politicians have announced their intentions to seek re-election in the November general election.

• Congressman William D. Ford (D-Taylor) is seeking his 13th term in the House of Representatives. Ford is currently chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee and ranking majority member of the House Committee on Education and Labor. He has been a member of Congress since 1964.

• State Rep. Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) will seek a fourth term in the state House of Representatives.

Democratic delegates chosen for convention

Patricia Hough, of Westland, Ethel Mae Howard, of Ypsilanti, and John Sedluk, of Taylor, will be Jesse Jackson delegates at the National Democratic Party Convention this summer. All three will represent the 15th Congressional District.

Also from the 15th District will be Ben DeHart, of Westland, (pledged to Dukakis) and Harlow Scott, of Taylor (pledged to Gephardt).

Mini-grants: Teachers receive funding for projects

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Innovative teachers can spawn curiosity in most students, regardless of the child's mental capacity.

Officials at the Wayne County Intermediate School District go out of the way each year to reward innovative teachers with mini-grants to fund their projects.

More than 30 teachers in area schools received the grants this year, according to Jim Mahrt, a consultant in the planning grants division of the intermediate school district.

Mahrt said most of the school districts in the county compete for the grants. State funding is set aside each year to finance the projects.

About $15,000 from the state and $7,000 contributed by area districts is used for the grants. Mahrt said the mini-grant amounts range from $250 to $500.

"It's a growing idea," he said. "More and more teachers take part each year."

Area teachers recognized and the titles of their projects include:

Inkster Public Schools

• Alton Darden, of Woodson Elementary, received $517 for his project "Michigan History . . . A Story of Color." The project combined the study of Michigan history with the study of black history.

Plymouth-Canton Community Schools

• Barbara Murphy, of Plymouth-Salem, earned $263 for her project titled "News Special from the Past." Students prepared video reports of historical events.

• Wendy L. Ferns, of Plymouth-Canton High School, received $150 to implement her project called "Roman Lamps." The project included a presentation by a Latin and Greek professor, which included a hands-on demonstration of how Roman lamps were made.

• Salem high school teacher Kris Darby received $250 for her idea, "Oriental Art." The project was a comprehensive study of Oriental art, specifically poetry.

• "Storybuilders Workshop" was the brainchild of Gallimore Elementary teacher Norma Foster. She received a $250 grant to bring a professional theater company to the school.

• Lowell Junior High School teacher Alan Kohring received $320 for his project, "Robotics Exploration." Students, through the help of the grant, were able to learn to operate a robot.

• "Mounting Paste-Ups" received a $746 grant and a state award. It was the idea of Richard Saudners, of Plymouth-Canton High School. Students learned the standard technique for mounting commercial art paste-ups.

Romulus Community Schools

• Laura Shannon, of the Beacon Day Treatment Center, received $402 for her project, "Reading Motivation." The project gave high school students the opportunity to act as positive role models for younger students and enhance their own self images by sponsoring activities as part of Michigan Reading Month.

• Phyllis Cebula and Gail Coleman, of Romulus Senior High, both contributed to "Coping Skills" and received $450 for their idea. Cebula and Coleman taught students how to deal with difficult situations they might encounter in everyday life.

Van Buren Public Schools

• Cynthia Page, of Elwell Elementary, taught "Hispanic Musical Arts" and received a $500 grant to fund the program. Students studying Spanish learned more about the culture through music.

• Cathy Walker, of Rawsonville Elementary, received $500 for her project, "Creative Writing." This project included lessons on the many aspects of publishing a book.

• A project titled "Hispanic Culture and Language" was the brainchild of Linda J. Clayton, of Elwell Elementary. She received $145 for her project. The project helped introductory Spanish students experience different parts of the Hispanic culture.

Wayne-Westland Community Schools

• "Hello Out There" was the idea of Donna Keller, of Fischer Elementary. A $500 grant was awarded to the project. Students became electronic pen pals through the use of computers.

• Carolyn Stuart developed "Is It Time Yet?" for students at Hoover Elementary and received a $260 grant. The program emphasized all aspects of time.

• Cassandra Bekiares, of Titus Elementary, received $500 to implement "M and M's: Michigan to Massachusetts Pen Pals." This program gave students the opportunity to exchange letters with children from across the country.

2 new runways are proposed in Metro Airport expansion plan

Expansion plans, which would include the construction of two new runways at Metropolitan Wayne County Airport, have been recommended after a two-year study by the airport Capacity Enhancement Task Force.

The task force was selected by the Federal Aviation Administration to study capacity and delay problems and to recommend solutions.

Recommendations by the 42-member task force include:

- Construction of a second east-west runway;
- Construction of a north-south runway;
- Building of holding areas and taxiways to facilitate the flow of aircraft ground traffic and reduce the time it takes an aircraft to taxi to and from their gates;
- Terminal expansion consistent with the long-term needs and objectives of the airport, and
- More sophisticated air traffic control equipment and procedures.

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara "strongly concurs" with the recommendation, saying "the second crosswind (east-west) runway is in the Wayne County Master Plan and the county currently owns sufficient land for the runway and its associated clear zones. The fourth parallel runway, also recommended by the FAA Task Force, is a relatively new concept and would require the acquisition of additional property."

McNamara said the task force recommendations "help to validate the necessity of our capital improvement program."

According to the task force report, construction of a new crosswind runway would double the capacity for an east-west operation and would allow for increased use of a west configuration of approximately 15 percent. The task force estimated that the benefits of the new runway would be a reduction of 54,990 hours of delay and a savings of more than $85.3 million per year in delay costs. The construction cost of the crosswind runway would be approximately $40 million.

The fourth runway, according to the task force, would be necessary for the airport to be able to handle 500,000 to 600,000 operations per year - the number estimated for annual operations within the next two decades.

The task force examined two options for the north-south runway - the construction of a dependent runway and the building of an independent runway. Estimated benefits of a dependent runway would be an annual delay reduction of 2,425 hours amounting to $3.8 million, and the benefits of an independent runway were estimated to be an annual reduction of 3,316 hours and $5.1 million. The cost to construct a runway, which will require the acquisition of additional property in the Wayne Road area, is being developed in the Master Plan Study.

Also being studied is a plan to construct a third east-west crosswind runway. According to the task force, if operations at Metro Airport continue to increase, a third crosswind airport will be of benefit by providing east-west capacity which is equivalent to the present north-south capacity.

Richard B. Jamison, the Director of Airports for the county, said, "Negotiations between the airlines and the county regarding future terminal development are proceeding satisfactorily. Once an agreement is reached, we will be able to provide the passenger gates needed to complement these airfield improvements and to accommodate the surge in traffic we are experiencing."

Jamison said the passenger enplanements at Metro Airport have risen from 4.2 million in 1982 to 9.2 million in 1987 and "are expected to reach 14.8 million by 1995."

The FAA has long range plans to improve and enhance the entire U.S. Air Traffic Control System. These improvements, which would be needed to increase capacity and reduce delays at Metro Airport include the installation of Doppler weather radar, airport surface detection equipment, approach and runway lights and the upgrading of runways.

'Jail solution won't be easy'

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

The jail overcrowding update presented to the Conference of Western Wayne by Wayne County Commission Susan Heintz offered no quick and easy answers.

Heintz spoke to the 17-community organization at its May meeting in the Wayne City Hall.

The only long-term answer seems to be in adding cells to the Wayne County Jail and constructing another 600-bed facility, according to the commissioner's report.

Privately operated jails will not solve the current problem, she said, because their operation is not possible under current legislation. However, she said, there is legislation in committee which could permit the privatization of jails.

In the event that private jails are approved, Heintz said, the legislature will have to answer the question of whether local communities could be forced to accept a private jail or if the local zoning laws would apply.

Heintz said the use of alternatives to jailing, such as the work release programs have helped to ease the problem of overcrowded jails, but none of the temporary measures have solved the problem.

"The closing of DeHoCo (the Detroit House of Correction), took away 1,200 to 1,600 cells, depending on who you talk to," Heintz said. "County Executive Edward McNamara also is concerned about docket slippage (the length of time before a case comes to trial). McNamara is suggesting that the problem be studied and monitored."

Heintz noted that it should take 30 days to bring a case to trial. During that time, unless the individual is granted bond, he must be housed in the county jail. Pre-trial prisoners, she said, are often housed 60 to 90 days, or in some cases as many as 120 days before their trial, thus adding to the jail overcrowding.

A task force is currently studying the problem of jail space and will be making a recommendation to McNamara in the near future, said Heintz who serves on the commission studying the issue.

STOP DRUNK DRIVERS BEFORE THEY STOP YOU

Drive with Care
Memorial Day Weekend

Statistics show, you or someone close to you will one day stop a drunk driver on the road. Whether we like it or not, we are all "under the influence" of people who will drink too much and then get behind the wheel. And even though the laws are cracking down to catch offenders and drinking ages have been raised in most states, your best protection is to know your own limitations with alcohol. Make sure your family and friends are also aware by learning the facts, and not allowing anyone to drive while intoxicated.

Don't wait until you or someone you know stops a drunk driver on the road, before you discover the sobering consequences of mixing alcohol and driving.

Area growth spurs 'a burden' on the mass transit plan

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Population and industrial growth in the tri-county area has created a burden on local and regional transportation, according to officials who met on Friday to express their concerns.

"Some of the officials in the Macomb and Oakland counties are concerned what House Bill 5571 would do to their areas," said John Amberger, executive director of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. "And that was one of the major reasons why we met - to identify the problems and seek solutions."

House Bill 5571 proposes to create a new structure that would reorganize the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA). And SEMCOG's Transportation Advisory Council (TAC) has identified a list of those concerns with the bill. SEMCOG is looking for executive committee support in bringing those concerns to government officials.

"The bill, in its present form, ignores representation of perimeter counties," Amberger said. "And it also doesn't stipulate provisions for dispensation of funding in the event of a member withdrawal."

"No mechanism is in place for establishing a local dedicated source of funding for transit," Amberger added.

The executive director pointed out that among TAC's other concerns with the bill will be taken into consideration by committee members and presented to the lawmakers.

"But we believe that these are issues that can be resolved," he added.

In a press release, SEMCOG officials said that SEMCOG members will look closely at proposed fare increases, funding from Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties and proposed cuts to federal funding.

Faced with a federal edict to clean up the Rouge River before the year 2000, executive committee support is also being sought by developers of the draft version of the Rouge Remedial Action Plan.

Developers are planning to release the draft of the 20-year cleanup plan for public review and comment. TAC support is necessary before the plan can be released, according to SEMCOG officials. The same request will go before the SEMCOG general assembly in June.

SEMCOC is a voluntary association of county, cities, villages, townships, intermediate school districts and community colleges in the seven-county Southeast Michigan Region.

The principle functions of the council are short-and-long term planning for housing, transportation, land use, public safety, recreation and open space, economic development and the environment.

Light tax: Ruling could be costly

Cities which collect special assessments for lighting may find that the state may "turn off their power" if proposed legislation is not adopted.

A recent ruling confirmed the ability of cities to levy special assessments for the installation of lighting, but not for the maintenance and operation of the system, according to Westland Mayor Charles Griffin. The mayor hopes, however, that passage of House Bill 4228 will remedy the problem for Westland and many other communities throughout the state.

"The bill will have a tremendous impact on many communities," Griffin said.

House Bill 4228 reads that "each city may in its charter provide for assessing and reassessing the costs, or a portion of the costs of a public improvement to a special district" to include cost and

Griffin said the loss of the ability to levy special assessments for operation and maintenance of lighting systems would mean a loss of $750,000 in revenue, which would take 1 mill from the city general fund to replace.

necessary expenses for the "operation and maintenance of a boulevard lighting system, whether that service is provided directly by the city or is provided by an investor-owned utility." The bill also validates special assessments which were levied before the effective date of the 1987 amendment to Act 279.

In the event that the legislation is not passed, Westland and the other communities could only levy special assessments for the installation of lighting - not for the operation and maintenance of lighting systems.

Griffin said that the loss of the ability to levy special assessment for operation and maintenance of lighting systems would mean a loss of $750,000 in revenue, which would take one mill from the city general fund to replace.

According to a report to the Conference of Western Wayne at its May 13 meeting, only cities which "spell out" the intention to set up special lighting assessments in their charters may do so. On the other hand, township have the power to assess, whether or not it is specified in their charters.

Griffin, who also serves as CWW chairman, admitted that Westland would be "hard hit" if the legislation, which was introduced by Rep. James Kos-teva (D-39), does not pass. However, he observed that the city of Wyandotte, which operates a municipal power system, would suffer a devastating loss if it could not levy assessments for maintenance and operation of its lighting system. Similar hardships would exist for most of the cities in northern Michigan, he said.

State travel on increase

Visitors are heading to Michigan in numbers, as overall travel numbers increased 6.3 percent from 1985 to 1987 - higher than the national growth average of 4.3 percent, according to the Michigan Travel Bureau.

A recent study of travel data in Michigan revealed that:

- Wayne County leads the state with total direct traveler spending of $2.1 billion - more than twice as large as second-place finishers, Oakland County, where direct spending was $985 million.

Detroit, Grand Rapids, Flint, Lansing, Ann Arbor, Grand Traverse, Marquette and the Straits of Mackinac represent the 10 most popular areas in the state for travelers, the Travel Bureau study revealed.

John Savich, Michigan Travel Bureau director, applauded the findings this week and said the growth rate is the start of a new traveling trend in the state.

"We will continue in our efforts - through a variety of strategies - to grow faster than the rest of the nation and to work with local organizations and governments to play our strengths and to help all regions reach their full potential," Savich said.

Parks program is popular

The "Saturday in the Park" program sponsored by the Wayne County Parks Department is one of the most popular activities for Wayne County residents this summer, the program director said this week.

For more on the activities of western Wayne County residents this summer, see page C-1.

House votes on school plan

A proposal that includes the training of teachers and support staff in Michigan school districts and also requires school boards to submit annual school improvement plans to the country intermediate school district of jurisdiction is now in a state Senate committee. Members of the state House of Representatives have approved funding for the proposal.

School boards would develop and implement three- to five-year improvement plans for each school within the district.

Memorial to honor Vietnam Veterans

A Vietnam Veterans Memorial monument may be established on the grounds of the capitol complex, in Lansing.

Names of Michigan citizens who died or are listed as missing in action in the Vietnam conflict will be on the monument. The proposal is in a state Senate committee, after members of the state House voted unanimously to create a state fund to solicit private donations to be used to build the monument.

Spouse rape bill before governor

A bill that would remove a exemption in the 1975 Michigan rape law that blocks a spouse from being prosecuted for raping his or her partner unless he or she lives apart and one has filed for divorce or seperation is before Gov. Blanchard for his signature.

The measure clarifies that a rape charge would not be treated differently because of the relationship of the victim to the alleged attacker.

Bill prohibits sale of drug paraphernalia

Sale and advertisement of pipes, spoons, scales and other devices intended to be used with cocaine and other controlled substances would be banned under a bill awaiting Gov. Blanchard's signature. Proponents of the statewide measure say several counties and local communities have successfully used similar bans to eliminate the open display and sale of drug paraphernalia.

Property values on increase statewide

A preliminary report on the Michigan State Equalized Values shows that property values statewide have increased by slightly more than 7 percent from last year.

Total SEVs are reported as $103.7 billion in real property (land and buildings) and $15.4 billion in personal property (furnishings, machinery and equipment). Treasury officials say that the substantial SEV increases indicate a strong and growing economy in the state.

Progress is made on dangerous animal bills

Two dangerous animal bills are in state Senate committees, after passing in the state House. A bill about pit bulls is now before Gov. Blanchard.

The measures from the House would increase criminal and civil sanctions against the owners of dangerous animals that attack humans without provocation, and also impose felony punishments on individuals who participate in dog fighting contests, either as owners of the animals or as spectators of the illegal events.

Workers may be given voting time

A bill awaiting a vote in the state House would require employers in the state to give workers sufficient time off to vote on election days.

Proponents of the bill say that some employees have missed opportunities to vote because of unscheduled overtime requirements.

Bill requires toy gun to be marked

Police shootings of people holding toy guns that looked like real guns are why some lawmakers in Lansing are supporting a bill requiring the making of barrels on realistic-looking toy guns with an indelible flourescent color.

Holiday speeders will be nabbed

Memorial Day travelers are being urged by State Police officials to pay attentions to the posted speed limited signs. Special patrol officers will be on duty to enforce the limits, officials said.

An extra 1,500 of police manpower will be on duty that weekend, officials said. Special patrols will be on alert on I-94, from Port Huron to New Buffalo.

Tax reform plan nets uncertainty

By KIM KOESTER
ANP Special Writer

Local business owners are not sure whether the news is good or bad.

Gov. Blanchard has proposed the repeal of the single business tax—a controversial tax on small businesses—and replacement of it with a new flat-rate profits tax. The plan was announced May 18.

Meanwhile, Republicans in the state Senate proposed another bill that would cut business taxes and take money from the state coffers to fund the difference.

The new tax rate in Gov. Blanchard's proposal would be between 3.5 and 7 percent, according to state Treasurer Robert A. Bowman. Blanchard said the tax will encourage growth and improve the job climate in Michigan.

The single business tax would be repealed for firms with gross earnings of less than $6 million a year, and would be phased out for businesses earning between $6 million and $47 million annually.

Currently, the single business tax is 2.35 percent on profits, depreciation and payroll, plus an employee tax. This will continue for big businesses making more than $6 million. Those making less than $40,000 each year currently don't pay a tax. That would remain unchanged in Blanchard's proposal.

David J. Willett, president and publisher of the Associated Newspapers and president of the Small Business Association of Michigan, was cautious about the tax reform plans.

"I'm enthusiastic about the governor's initiative in SBT reform. We certainly will be taking a look at his proposal, as well as the Republican-Senate bill dealing with the single business tax.

"Blanchard's proposal is represented as revenue-neutral, which means there are going to be winners and losers. What we are waiting to see, before I form a definite opinion, are the rates associated with a tax on small businesses that are making a profit and do not fall under the minimum."

Curt Atchison, president of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce, said he completely agrees with the idea.

"I don't think the single business tax is equitable," Atchison said.

He added that he would like to "see it go away entirely."

James E. Glinski, president of the Canton Chamber of Commerce, is "really against" the single business tax. Glinski called it a "head tax" on employees.

The new tax plan, Glinski said, would allow small firms to hire more help.

He said he is in favor of a tax on profits rather employees.

Romulus Chamber of Commerce President Bill Simons said the proposal "sounds good from a distance," but he hadn't seen the details to be sure.

Jeff Juenemann, president of the Westland Chamber of Commerce, said he believes the "single business tax is an extremely unfair tax, especially to small businesses," and it is detrimental to jobs in Michigan. He would be "ecstatic" if it were repealed, he said.

William Garrett, president of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, said his "personal reaction is that the single business tax is unfair" because small businesses are "taxed even when they suffer a loss."

Other local reactions to the tax-cutting proposal included:

- "I think that's the way it should be," explained Roger Paull, owner of Holland Furnace Co., Wayne.
- "I love it," said Ralph Piotrowski, of Glass Unlimited.

However, he said, a change in the system might not be all positive, and he will await details before he becomes sold on the idea.

- Gloria Doyle, of Lakeview Printing, in Belleville, said that it doesn't matter what state officials do.
- "It's not a big deal if they replace it with another" tax. But repealing totally would be great."
- Homer Morris, of Coy Kendall Flowers, Inc., in Belleville, said that businesses would just "get nailed somewhere else," and there is "never a free ride."
- Brian Harison, of Danilo's Pizzeria, in Westland, said, "It stinks," and that "personally I don't care for it."

Voting changes are eyed

A bill that could improve voter turnouts and increase participation was recently approved by the Michigan House of Representatives and could be signed into law as early as next month, said state Rep. Jim Kosteva (D-Canton Township).

House Bill 5434, introduced by Maxine Berman (D-Southfield), was approved May 3 in the House by a vote of 103 to 3, and sent May 4 to the Senate Government Operations committee.

The objective in allowing the bill to pass was to "fully open (the) voter registration system." Kosteva said people would be allowed to register "anywhere" instead of just their community or district.

He said he expects the bill to be approved by the senate in "a month or month and a half." If passed by the senate, it would not take immediate effect until May 1, 1990.

Rouge is more than a 'dirty joke'

We laugh about it, make jokes because of it and disregard any serious thought of ever being able to set foot in it.

But the fact remains – the Rouge River is our river, our problem . . . our responsibility to save.

Canton Township Supervisor Jim Poole made what some might call a radical suggestion last month. Poole is hoping to turn everyone's joke into an economic fortune by developing the river, cleaning its shore and, someday, even leading the tour of canoes floating downstream.

And although many would not admit it, Poole will most likely have the last laugh when it comes to the joke of the Rouge River.

The Rouge is much more than a polluted waterway residents in western Wayne County and surrounding areas fail to worry about. The 126-mile stretch of murky water, log-filled river bottom and debris-adorned banks are our link to the Great Lakes for which our state is so famous.

Some residents, apparently, feel the riverbed is a burial ground for garbage. That would explain the 19 cars, four refrigerators, 75 grocery carts, two motorcycles, 150 tires and two couches found in the waters during cleanup efforts the last two years.

Others feel the Rouge is unimportant in their daily lifestyles. In fact, without the waterway, the runoff from melting snow in the spring and heavy rains of summer would be disastrous – even life-threatening – if the waters of the Rouge did not channel the rainwater downstream, into the Detroit River and, eventually, the Great Lakes.

So, what is the point?

Area students and a handful of concerned citizens will put on their least favorite underwear, grab gloves and a rake and head for the banks of the Rouge on June 4 to help rescue this ailing waterway. They will be participating in the Third annual Rouge Rescue, an event staged each June and sponsored by the Friends of the Rouge River.

Last year, more than 2,000 volunteers sacrificed a Saturday and helped in the cleanup. But where were the others? Do they not realize the importance of a cleaner Rouge?

A cleaner Rouge River, obviously, will benefit far more than 2,000 residents in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. Barring any technical explanation of the environmental water cycle, the pollution being poured into the waters of the Rouge will return to hunt us - in the form of rain, humidity and in our air.

It's time more of us joined in the effort to rescue our only link to the great waters of this state. It's time more of us took seriously the potentially harmful effects of a polluted river located near our homes.

It's time more of us followed the lead of people like Jim Poole, whose "radical" ideas might just someday be called ideas that were "ahead of their time."

Join the fight. Rescue the Rouge on June 4. We all are depending on it.

A note about elections

As part of an ongoing effort to educate readers in the editorial policies of the Associated Newspapers, this newspaper will regularly print details of such policies and information on how to use our product. What follows is one part in this ongoing effort.

Before every election – school, city, township, county, state or national – all candidates vying for public office in that election are sent candidate questionnaires. These forms have been standardized so that each candidate is asked the same questions. This helps ensure fairness and an easy comparison of the various candidates and how they stand on important issues in the election.

A copy of this form is available for inspection at the Associated Newspaper offices during regular business hours.

The Wednesday before the election, this newspaper will print a candidate profile of each candidate who responds to our request for material. While we make every effort to contact candidates who fail to respond, it is the candidates' responsibility to participate in this forum.

Also that day, we will list our choices – endorsements – for the number of seats the voter must decide. Our endorsements are based on past experience and record of the candidate, presentation of his or her background, stance on major issues and probability of serving the general public in the most effective, ethical and sincere way possible.

Further questions about the policies of the Associated Newspapers or other information should be directed to the managing editor.

Ministers support needs of children

I am writing this letter in my capacity as an officer of the Wayne-Westland Ministerial Association in response to allegations of "deception" on the part of the Wayne-Westland Teen Health Assessment Project, with respect to representation of the Wayne-Westland Ministerial Association on the advisory committee.

Specifically, Dulcie D. Sisson, in her recent letter to the editor, states, "In fact, to my knowledge, only one minister in this community is involved, and even though the committee letterhead indicates he represents the community ministerial association, he does not." This is false.

The Rev. Robert Millar, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Wayne and a lifelong resident of this community, has represented the association on the advisory committee for nearly a year.

Sisson also states, "This association did not approve of or have any voice in his decisions to serve on the committee." This is also false.

To make such a false statement and to make it so categorically is rather shocking. Sisson has not attended any meetings of the Ministerial Association in the past two years, if ever.

The Wayne-Westland Ministerial Association is just that – an association of clergy in the community. Theological and denominational persuasions are as diverse as are Wayne-Westland churches. The association operates, more or less, informally.

However, the Rev. Millar was asked by consensus of the group to serve as its representative in one of our rather informal association meetings. We have no "minutes" to prove that. We have no secretary, and minutes have not been kept since 1974 to the best of my knowledge (what files and records there are, are here in my office).

The Rev. Millar has regularly reported to the Ministerial Association on the work of the advisory committee to the Teen Health Assessment Project, and, on at least three occasions, the association has met with other representatives of the advisory committee and with Rebecca Cabral, project director.

We met with them most recently on Wednesday, May 18 at our regular meeting of the association. At that time, we had the opportunity to see the results of the surveys of parents, students and staff of the Wayne-Westland schools.

I believe that it is fair to say that while no vote was taken – indeed, no vote was necessary – the Wayne-Westland Ministerial Association supports efforts to meet the needs of students that the survey results reveal.

As one person at the meeting said, "Our kids are worth the effort."

'Everyone wants healthy kids'

During the past months, local news organizations have provided readers with extensive coverage of a local, community-based advisory committee known officially as the Wayne-Westland Teen Health Assessment Project Committee. Community organizations represented on the WWTAP are: Annapolis Hospital, city of Wayne, city of Westland, Wayne-Westland Community Schools, Family Neighborhood Services, Wayne and Westland Chambers of Commerce, Wayne County Health Department, Wayne County Intermediate School District, Wayne County Probate Court-Juvenile Division, Wayne-Westland Ministerial Association and Ford Motor Co.

There are parents, community leaders and a physician on the committee.

In simple terms, WWTAP's goal has been to "assess the health needs of teens in the Wayne-Westland School District," which was a condition of a state grant. Last week, survey results were shared with local news organizations and reported to their readers. Clearly, a public service is being provided to our community.

A major priority of WWTAP's activities has been community outreach, that is, direct presentations regarding the assessment project to interested community and civic groups. Examples of community outreach activities are: Wayne-Westland Ministerial Association (three times), Wayne-Westland Board of Education (twice), Wayne-Westland Executive Council of PTAs (twice) and parent advisory groups, to name but a few.

Each request for a formal presentation has been responded to with full and complete disclosure of WWTAP's above-stated goals, our progress and possible outcome options. Clearly, the WWTAP has forged ahead with self-initiative and established valuable lines of communication with many residents in our community.

More importantly, our belief in the value of community outreach activities is evident by our record. WWTAP believes, our community residents deserve direct, personal opportunities to exchange values on the subject of teen health.

The WWTAP has achieved its goal and identified psychosocial and preventable health risk behaviors, such as substance abuse, nutrition, mental health, sexual behavior and safety, as well as teen health concerns. The results of the three surveys do not lead one to conclude that Wayne-Westland teens lack primary medical care. For the most part, parents are satisfied with the quality care of medical care.

A reasonable approach may be to gather additional community parental and teen input toward how to most efficiently and effectively address identified teen needs. Perhaps, through information sharing, enhancement of referral systems, development of outreach campaigns and support groups, appropriate responses can be formulated.

The health assessment committee has adopted as its motto "Everyone Wants Healthy Kids."

Belleville 400, 800 relay teams find gold at Monroe High

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Turning in some of their best performances and times of the 1988 track & field season, Belleville High dominated the 400 and 800-meter and finished second in the mile relays at the Class A regional championships staged on Saturday at Monroe High.

The 400 and 800 teams surfaced with regional titles and also qualified to compete in the state finals scheduled for June 4 at Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

Belleville not only qualified its two winning relays, it also will send to EMU senior Al Tilman who finished second in the high jump competition.

Belleville finished third as a team in a field of 17 competing area high schools, Monroe, the undefeated Wolverine 'A' Conference title favorite, captured the regional title with 144 points, followed by Carlson with 97, and Belleville, with 63.

I am pleased. Very pleased. We finished third in a field of 17. And I believe our relay teams can finish in the top 10 in the state. That's our goal. And we can do it.

— Coach Dave Medley

"I am very pleased with our overall team efforts," said Belleville coach Dave Medley. "To finish third and qualify three relays is an accomplishment in itself. We are looking forward to the state finals."

Medley chose for his 400-meter relay entry Mark Hooks, Michael Gentry, Virgil Chandler and Garrett Clark who combined for a 44.2 performance - their best effort of the year. The foursome's winning time was two-tenths of a second off of the school record set in 1986.

With Hooks sitting it out, Medley inserted Tilman as his anchor-man for the 800-relay and Gentry, Chandler, and Clark had no peers in the event as they turned in the winning time of 1:30.4. Again, it was a season best and a second off the school record.

Tilman cleared 6 feet, 3 inches in finishing second for his silver medal in the high jump. The 17-year-old senior also picked up a bronze in the 400-meter run with a 49.9. Although only athletes who finish in the top two berths of the individual events qualify for state, Tilman made it through in the event because his performance met state-qualifying times.

The Tigers also will be represented at state by their mile relay team which finished second to arch-rival, Monroe, in the event. The relay lineup included Gentry, Chandler, Clark and Tilman who were clocked in 3:24.9. The winning time posted by the Trojan foursome was 3:23.9.

It's playoff time

With the regular high school baseball season behind them, area teams are swinging for district playoff berths that will be decided this week. Belleville plays Brighton 4 p.m. Friday on the home field to determine which will be represented in the district while New Boston Huron clashed with conference foe, Monroe Catholic Central, last night for the right to play in a Class B district playoffs. Brooks cards no-hitter ...And she can thank Fitch

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Brenda Brooks has been flirting with a no-hitter all year long.

And, the Belleville High pitcher finally got one last week, crushing Wyandotte 24-0 in the qualifying round of the Class A softball tournament staged last week.

Brooks notched five strikeouts and walked one en route to her 14th victory in 19 starts this season. And she can thank shortstop Becky Fitch, in part, for her and the team's first no-hitter of the 1988 campaign.

Fitch made a diving catch of a hard-hit line drive in the first inning that had extra bases written all over it. After Fitch's sensational catch, Brooks settled down and took command the rest of the way.

Fitch also helped at the plate as she hammered two hits, including a fifth inning homer.

This team has set its sights on reaching the districts and going far beyond. Only time will tell if we will reach our destination.

— Peggy Curtis

Teammate Christi Garrett chipped in with a pair of round-trippers, including a grand slam in a six-run second inning.

Kathy Murphy accounted for three hits - all singles - for the winners.

Belleville exploded for nine runs in the first inning and had built up a 15-0 lead in the second inning, then went on to score three runs in each of the next three innings before officials called it a day using the "mercy rule."

The victory is Belleville's ticket to the pre-district playoffs scheduled for Friday against Taylor Truman at Belleville High. The winner of the Belleville-Taylor matchup will advance to the Class A district tournament to be conducted on Saturday, June 4 at Temperance Bedford High School.

Belleville Coach Peg Curtis believes her team has an excellent shot at reaching the finals.

"Taylor has a respectable team but I don't think they can match up with us this year," she said. "Our kids have set their goals on reaching the districts and hopefully going beyond."

The Tigers began the week with an impressive 20-7 overall and a 10-2 Wolverine 'A' Conference record. They had a rematch with Wyandotte on Tuesday and will travel to Lincoln Park on Thursday before taking on Taylor in that pre-district clash at home on Friday.

Brenda Brooks

Last week, Belleville, with Brandi Price filling in for the ailing Brooks on the mound, subdued Wayne Memorial 8-1. Price was right on target as she scattered three hits, fanned five and walked only one against a highly-touted Wayne club.

"Under the circumstances, she (Price) was exceptional," Curtis commented.

The Tigers broke a scoreless deadlock with a four-run outburst in the top of the third, then added a pair of runs in the sixth and seventh frames.

Milan hosts Huron for season finale

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

New Boston Huron and Coach Jon Labeau's long and dreary baseball season ends today in Milan.

The Chiefs who are sporting a 1-14 conference and a 1-15 won-lost overall record after double losses last week, dropping a 6-3 decision to Flat Rock and digesting a 6-0 shutout at the hands of another league rival, Riverview.

"It's been a rough year," Labeau said. "It's been tough on the kids as well as myself. But I feel that this has been a teaching year. A year the kids gained experience and we are definitely looking forward to the playoffs."

Labeau was preparing to send senior lefthander John Page to the mound last night against Monroe Catholic Central in the Class B qualifying round of the district playoffs.

"Monroe is a good team," Labeau said. "But, when Page is on and if the defense does the job, anything can happen. I feel we have a good chance of getting past Monroe CC."

Huron also was scheduled to play Woodhaven on Monday and will wrap up the 1988 campaign (unless it upsets Monroe) today against Milan.

Junior southpaw Mike Debozy was the victim of a porous defense as his teammates made four errors, two in the first inning that led to four tainted Flat Rock runs. Although the Chiefs chipped away at the Rocks' lead with single runs in the second, third and fourth innings, they never mustered enough scoring power to overcome their early deficit.

Errors. That has been the story all season. Our infield just hasn't performed.

— Coach Jon Labeau

Flat Rock sealed the victory with a two-run fifth.

Debozy went the distance, notched 11 strikeouts and walked one in tossing a seven-hitter. Winner Jimmy Collins also twirled a seven-hitter. He struck out seven and walked four.

Mike Emery led the Chiefs' assault on Collins as he blasted his fourth homer of the season, a solo blast in the third inning. Emery also singled.

Labeau pinpointed the turning point of the game to an outstanding catch made by Flat Rock's outfielder Jim VanHill who went to the left field corner to snag a long fly ball off the bat of John Spiecker. Emery and Dan Vandecar were left stranded on third and second, respectively.

The Pirates of Riverview took advantage of four costly Huron errors to chalk up a 6-0 victory later in the week. "That's been the story (errors) all year long," Labeau moaned. "The infield just hasn't performed."

Page, who was in control most of the way, unleashed two bad pitches that cost him a pair of homers. His rival, Jenkins, posted his second shutout of the season, striking out 12 and walking two.

"Jenkins has been tough on our batters," Labeau added. "He also pitched a shutout against us earlier in the year."

Next stop, state finals

Netmen wiped out in regional

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Local high school tennis players saw their dreams of competing in the state tournament dashed on Friday as local players were eliminated at their respective regionals.

"I am disappointed because I felt we had some pretty good singles players," said Robichaud Coach Jim Hadley whose team finished seventh at the regional staged at Dearborn High. The Bulldogs garnered 5 points on the strength of their doubles teams.

Saline, with 24 points, and Ann Arbor Greenhills, a private school, placed first and second at the Dearborn regional and will advance to the state finals.

In the meantime, Robichaud will shoot for its ninth overall and its fifth consecutive Suburban Athletic Conference championship today when members of the SAC assemble in Oak Park.

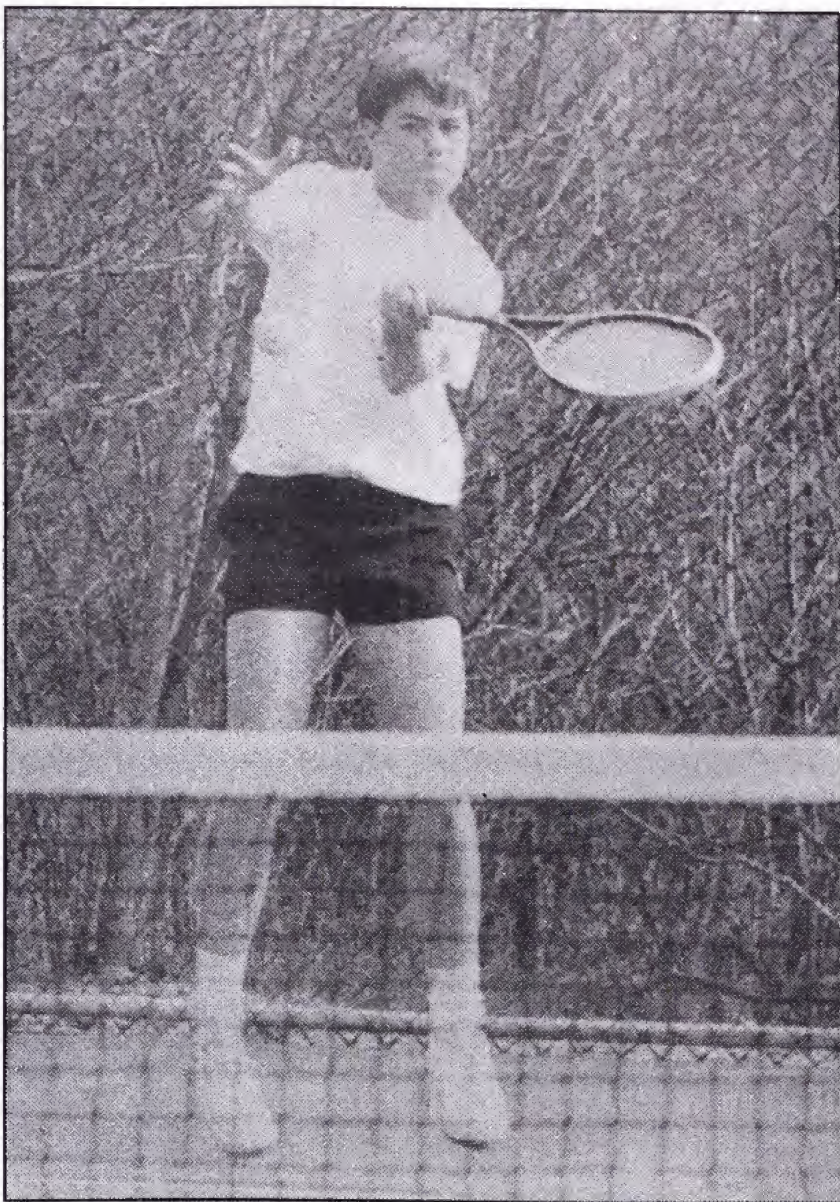

Hadley's netters take a perfect 8-0 record into the tournament.

"A week ago I would have said that we should breeze to the title," Hadley commented, "but I have some doubts after what happened at the regional. But, again, our singles faced some of the best players in the state.

"We had some kids who were seeded, then failed to win after drawing the byes."

The Bulldogs picked up a point in the No. 3 singles where Richard Kabeth won a two-setter from his counterpart from Allen Park, 6-1, 6-1. He was eventually eliminated by Greenhills.

entry of Charles Orsetti and Jay Wright survived their match with Allen Park Cabini, but they had to play three-sets for their victory. They won the opener 7-6, they lost a 4-6 decision before coming back to win 6-2. Dearborn shattered their hopes of reaching the semifinals, but again a tie-breaker was needed to do so.

In the No. 2 doubles, Tony Lario teamed with Ken Donegan to beat Allen Park, 2-0, in their first round of competition. They, too, fell prey to Dearborn, 6-1, 6-2.

In the No. 3 doubles, David Pace and partner Robert Stewart got by Monroe Jefferson 6-4 and 6-1 but in their second match, Grosse Ile, came out a 3-set winner. The Bulldogs won the opener 6-3, fell 5-7 and 4-6 in the final two rounds.

finishing in the top two places in each of the individual events qualify for the state finals).

The Tigers also had a third place finisher in shot putter Erika Dempsey who had a toss of 33 feet, 6 inches - good for third place.

Belleville's 400-meter relay team of Vetra Chandler, Tiffany Eaton, Kesha Pogue and Tyson also earned a bronze medal after finishing the event in 52.5. The 1600-meter relay team set a school record (4:12.8) as Pogue, Stumpf, Mitzie Herkimer and Hampton combined their efforts and talents.

"Our kids improved their times and performances in almost every event," Garland said. "It's too bad the season isn't beginning like today."

Here is the top 10 team finishes at the Class A regional at Monroe: 1. Edsel Ford (142) 2. Temperance Bedford (82) 3. Adrian (75) 4. Belleville (46) 5. Wyandotte (36) 6. Monroe (31) 7. Trenton (27) 8. Taylor Truman (22) 9. Fordson (10) 10. Romulus (8).

Medley hopes that his runners can finish among the top 10 in the state next week.

"I believe that with a little bit of improvement we can reach our goal," he added. "But, as we all know, the state is loaded with a lot of talent. And this is it."

Here are the point totals of the teams that competed in the regional championships at Monroe on Saturday:

1. Monroe (144) 2. Carlson (97) 3. Belleville (63) 4. Adrian (34) 5. Fordson and Bedford Temperance tied - (28) 7. Taylor Truman (26) 8. Edsel Ford (24) 9. Woodhaven (22) 10. Taylor Kennedy (18) 11. when we lost to Monroe and Trenton," said Belleville Coach Michael Garland. "In essence this is not the same team that lost those meets. These girls have made tremendous progress and I believe I can say, without reservation, that we now have the best team in the league."

The Tigers took a 6-2 overall record into the league meet.

Even if they win the league meet, they will not take the league title because of the two losses. The two frontrunners would have to finish at the bottom of the pack in order for the Tigers to climb to the top.

Though there is little room for speculation about which school has the best girls' team, few coaches will dispute the fact that Monroe is an overwhelming favorite to unseat Wayne Memorial as the next Wolverine 'A' Conference boys' track & field champ. Monroe is coming off of a victory at the Class A regional and is taking an unblemished 7-0 dual meet record into the conference meet.

Tigers miss their chance

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With the league co-leaders ripe for pickings, Belleville missed its golden chance to mix up the Wolverine 'A' Conference baseball standings last week.

Consequently, instead of Coach John Bertz's Tigers playing the roles of spoilers against conference frontrunners Southgate Anderson and Wayne Memorial, they found themselves sticking two crucial losses on their conference record.

"This is the first time this season that I can say that I am really disappointed in our kids," Bertz said after the Tigers dropped an 8-2 decision to Southgate and handed over a 6-4 verdict to Wayne Memorial.

The two losses left Bertz and the Tigers with a 4-7 conference and a 14-8 overall record.

Belleville could salvage some of its lost pride on Friday when the Tigers will host Brighton in the qualifying round of the Class A district playoffs. The winner will advance to the district tournament scheduled for June 4 at Milford.

Belleville blew a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the fourth when Anderson got to starting and losing Tiger hurler Bill

Missed opportunities

Belleville had a chance to climb up the Wolverine 'A' Conference standings last week as the Tigers faced league co-leaders Southgate Anderson and Wayne Memorial. However, Coach John Bertz's club blew their chances and lost both games. The Tigers will attempt to make it to the district playoffs at the expense of the Brighton team when the two teams meet 4 p.m. on Friday on the Tiger diamond. Ashley for three runs. Ashley had pitched three scoreless innings but, with the Tiger defense falling apart behind him, the door opened for his third setback in seven starts. He struck out eight and walked four while pitching a nine hitter.

Ron Pilkerton was the winner.

On Friday, the Tigers had defending co-champ Wayne (The Zebras share the title with Monroe) on the ropes until the top of the seventh when Jim Chronowski's club rallied for three runs to erase a 4-3 deficit.

Winner Kevin Besco notched nine strikeouts, walked one and was tagged for seven hits including a two-run homer in the fifth by Kelley O'Neal with Jerry Bitner aboard.

O'Neal, sidelined with an injury most of the season, was making only his second start this season. He finished with two hits. Teammate Dean Springer also came through with a two-run single that chased Phil Feist and O'Neal home in the fourth.

Feist suffered his first loss of the 1988 campaign. The Zebras collected 12 hits off of the Belleville starter who went the distance. He also fanned two and walked one.

Belleville was to complete a makeup game with Trenton on Monday. Trenton had the edge 11-3 when the game was postponed. On Tuesday, the Tigers traveled to Wyandotte and they are to bring the curtains down on the conference season on Thursday when they entertain Lincoln Park.

Wheatley wins Class 'B' regional track crowns

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

As he has throughout the 1988 high school track & field season, Tyrone Wheatley, a freshman at Robichaud High, has been a main attraction whenever he puts on a uniform.

In football, Wheatley excelled as a quarterback and earned All-Area recognition.

In track & field, Wheatley has been almost unbeatable in whatever event Coach Jeff Flounory has asked him to compete in. And, last Saturday, the 15-year-old athlete captured a pair of gold medals at the Class B regional championships and qualified for the June 4 state finals.

"I have said it before and I will repeat it - Tyrone has just been fantastic," said Flounory who also is a former All-Area track star from Robichaud. "He has so much potential, you can only speculate what he will accomplish before leaving the high school scene."

Wheatley soared 21 feet, 3 1/4 inch to place first in the field of 20 competing schools in the long jump. Not satisfied with only one gold medal, Tyrone ran the 100-meter dash in an outstanding 11 seconds flat for a victory in that event for a second gold.

Wheatley's "double victory" helped lift Robichaud to a fourth-place finish at the regional championships. The Bulldogs compiled 44 points.

Robichaud also has another regional champion in hurdler James Gee who cleared the 300-meter obstacles in 40.1.

Wheatley is just a superb athlete. And don't forget he's only a freshman. He could have come away with three gold medals if he didn't have that false start in the 200-meters.

- Coach Jeff Flounory

Rodney James picked up a silver medal for his performance in the discus. He had the second best toss of the afternoon - 132 feet, 6 inches. In the meantime, Eugene O'Neal finished 11th in the 800-meter run with a time of 2:03.4.

Robichaud will join the rest of the Suburban Athletic Conference pack this week to compete in the 1988 SAC championships. The Bulldogs are attempting to better their third place dual meet finish. They have lost to Ecorse and Oak Park in head-to-head combat.

Oak Park is the overwhelming favorite to take the SAC title, but Wheatley and Gee are favorites to win their specialties.

"It should be a good meet and a good tuneup for the state finals," Flounory noted. "But, obviously, Oak Park is the team to beat. None of us have done so during the regular season and I don't expect them to fall apart at the conference."

Area and local gymnasts win state tournament honors

Area and local gymnasts fared well at the United States Gymnastics Federation's invitational staged last week in Bay City.

Gymnasts Kim Nowak and Stefanie Anquilo came away with awards at the USGF Class III compulsory state meet.

Nowak, 10, captured ninth place in the all-around competition with a total of 33.55 points. She also finished in 14th place on the uneven bars and 15th on the balance beam.

Kim is the daughter of Larry and Peggy Nowak of Westland. Angiulo, 12, took a fifth place in the floor exercise event with an 8.70 effort (out of a possible 10). A seventh grader at East Middle School, she is the daughter of John and Lane Angiulo.

Both young gymnasts compete for Palastra Gymnastics and are coached by Ruth Ann McBride. Other area girls who qualified for the state meet from Palastra include Mary Ellen Fournier, Erin Johnson, Erin Ryan, Sonya Sims, Stacey West, and Margaret Wirth.

In the meantime, the Michigan Academy of Gymnastics sent a Class III optional team to the state championships and it placed 10th.

The team of Kim Ascencio, Julie Carrara, Stephanie Roberts, Stacey Shatterloe, and Shannon Tarris earned the honor of competing at the state meet by achieving qualifying scores at local levels and sectional competition.

Individual medal winners were awarded to Shattleroe, who finished eighth in the uneven bars; second place on floor exercise and fourth place all-around. Tarris was runnerup on balance beam and seven in floor exercise.

My boss didn't understand that I was healthy again.

So I was let go.

A lot of people are like my boss. They think that everyone dies of cancer. I thought so, too. Until the American Cancer Society, through one of its service and rehabilitation programs, helped me return to a normal life.

The ACS also has local Units that help Americans who've never had cancer understand it better.

Today, more and more, cancer is a curable disease. Ignorance about cancer is curable, too.

Golf balls are not all made equal

on the greens

dennis chall

With so many brands and types of golf balls available today, it is difficult for the average player to determine which best suits his or her needs. Our column today will attempt to make shopping for the right ball an easier process.

Basically, all golf balls fall into two distinct categories—the two-piece and three-piece construction.

A two-piece ball consists of a core and a cover. Balls in this category include Topflites, Pinnacles, Ultras and Maxfli M.D.G.s. Outside covers are very hard (surlin) and usually cut-proof.

Three-piece balls consist of a core, (which is the size of a marble), rubber windings and an outer cover of balata (natural rubber), surlin or zinthane (synthetic rubber compound). Balls in this category include Titleist Tour, Titleist PT, Spalding Tour Edition and Maxfli Tour.

Ball compression refers to how much a ball will compress (squeeze together) at impact, which determines ball velocity and distance. The slower your club-head speed, the lower compression rating you should select. Balls basically come in 80, 90 and 100-plus compressions.

Here are some additional guidelines for choosing the best golf balls for your needs:

- If you play with forged irons and natural wooden woods, your best choice is balata or the more durable surlin cover. Avoid two-piece balls and wooden heads, as they can damage the natural wood faces over time.

- If you play metal or graphite-headed woods, select the harder covered two-piece balls. You might even experience extra distance with this combination.

- With the advent of square grooved cast irons, many players are finding that the harder, covered, two-piece balls are more durable and promote excellent spin characteristics. There is, however, a "trade off," since all balls—including two-piece balls—are subject to "shearing" (sanding or dicing of the finish due to the sharpness of the square or "box" grooves).

One can simply replace balls a bit more frequently and use them for practice balls.

With so many choices today, you are bound to find a ball that will best serve your needs. If you wish further information, consult your local golf professional.

The sounds of the Big Band were heard around the area last weekend, as the Westland Cultural Society kicked off the 1988 "Concerts in the Park" season.

Don Varella and the Detroit Music Company performed at 6 p.m. Sunday, as part of the five-show season planned this year.

The concerts are scheduled the fourth Sunday of each month through September. Each event will begin at 6 p.m.

Audience members are asked to bring their own seating. Refreshments are available at each performance. The event takes place in the gazebo at Central City Park, Carlson Road, south of Ford, behind the Westland City Hall.

The following concerts are set for the remainder of the summer: June 26, Dixieland band, sponsored by J.C. Penny; July 24, country-western, sponsored by the Westland Rotary Club; Aug. 28, a jazz combo, sponsored by the Westland Chamber of Commerce; and Sept. 25, light rock, sponsored by J.C. Penny.

Entrants sought for teen pageant

Applications are being accepted for the Miss Michigan Teen All American Pageant, to be staged Sept. 3 and 4 at the Troy Hilton.

The 1988 event is the official preliminary to the Miss Teen All American pageant, staged annually at the Sheraton Bal Harbour Resort, in Miami Beach.

All judging is on the basis of poise, personality and beauty of face and figure. Applicants who qualify must be at least 13 years of age and younger than 19 as of Dec. 31, 1988.

Among her many prizes, Miss Michigan Teen All American 1988 will receive an all-expense-paid trip to Florida, where she will compete in the all American pageant. She will compete for a $20,000 prize package, including personal appearance contract, jewelry and a fur.

In addition, each state winner will be interviewed by a Hollywood casting director and New York modeling agency.

For entry information, send photo, name, address and telephone number to: 1988 Miss Michigan Teen All American, Dept. 2, 40 Central Park South, Suite 2H, New York, N.Y. 10019. Or call 1-304-242-4900.

Glen Campbell in Bavarian Festival

Recording star Glen Campbell will present four concerts during the Frankenmuth Bavarian festival, set Tuesday, June 21 and Wednesday, June 22 at the Heritage Park Festival grounds, in Frankenmuth.

Concerts are set at 3 and 8 p.m.

Balloon show is planned

The 16th annual Capt. Phogg Balloon Classic will be staged June 4 and 5 at the Crossroads Villages, off of I-75, near Flint.

Seventeen balloons will take part in three launches scheduled for 6:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Saturday and 6:30 a.m. Sunday.

For more information on the event, call 629-0040.

Bringing her hot, "no holds barred" performance to the Inkster-based Cosmos Entertainment Pavilion June 4 is noted vocalist Millie Jackson. The event has been dubbed "unrestricted night," and seating will be cabaret-Las Vegas style.

Jackson books Inkster appearance

A well-known star with the last name of Jackson will visit the Inkster area next week. And even though the star's first name isn't Michael, the excitement about the visit is just as intense.

Millie Jackson is the star who will bring her notoriety and fame to the area, as she performs June 4 at the Cosmos Entertainment Pavilion, 3415 Middlebelt Road, Inkster.

The Inkster show is being dubbed "unrestricted night," and seating will be cabaret-Las Vegas style.

Jackson's claim to fame is "groove music." She is called the "Queen of Sass and Class" in some parts, and she has captured such honors as "Most Promising Female Vocalist from the National Association of Television and Radio Artists," "Best Female R and B Vocalist from Cash Box and "Best Concert Performance" from L.A. Reader.

She has performed with such noted personalities as Isaac Hayes and Elton John and raised the ire of conservative elements everywhere with her "no holds barred" raps about the more sensitive sides of man-woman relationships.

Jackson recently released An Imitation of Love, a complete mix of her recording style, according to promoters.

The album features cuts which are intense, dreamy and even reggae in style.

Promoters of the new superstar say Jackson has "rewrote the rule book for female singers."

"You never quite know what to expect at her legendary live performances. She backed up her considerable shock technique with the power of her incredible voice: husky, foreboding, mysterious," promoters said.

Jackson has been labeled a "sex siren" because of her material. However, Jackson said, her act is just that, and, offstage, she enjoys cooking and decorating. Her daughter Keisha is a college student and son Jerroll hopes to someday be a musician.

The event is part of the new star-studded promotional effort being launched at the Cosmos Entertainment Pavilion. A former rollerskating rink, the building has been remodeled and designed as a top site for attracting major performers and artists.

Tickets for the show are $19.50 and are on sale at: Stardust Lounge, 3736 Inkster Road, Inkster; R&D Records, 1150 Middlebelt Road, Inkster; and Cosmos Box Office, day of show, 3415 Middlebelt Road, Inkster. Call 277-3810 for more ticket information.

Romulus mayor is radio host

Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally will appear on WCAR radio talk show "What's on Your Mind?" at 1 p.m. Thursday.

The program is designed for audience participation and enjoyment, according to promoters. Listeners are asked to call in with questions and comments.

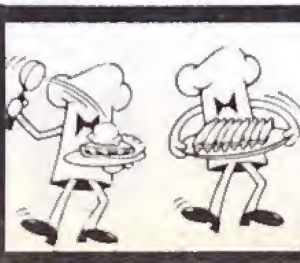

Guests on "What's on Your Mind?" are various individuals in the community capable of answering questions of community interest.

WCAR is station 1090 AM.

Local talent shining on moonlight cruises

A midnight cruise under the moonlight need not be only a dream for area residents, as the 1988 Boblo cruise season begins.

Each weekend, one of the wooden vessels sets sail down the Detroit River for two hours of entertainment and refreshments aboard the boat. Several local performers will make appearances on the moonlight cruises this year, which are offered Fridays, Saturdays and on three Sundays throughout the summer.

Soft drinks, beer, wine coolers and a variety of foods are available on the boat. The cruises depart from the Boblo

Detroit dock, located at the foot of Clark Avenue, at 11 p.m. and return at 1 a.m.

General admission is $10.95 per person. Groups of 10 or more with advance reservations pay $9.95 per person.

Tickets for all moonlight cruises are available from the Boblo box offices, AAA Michigan branch offices, C.A.A. branch offices and all Ticket-Master outlets.

Tickets are also available at the dock the evening of the cruise. Personal checks, MasterCard and Visa are accepted.

For more information, call 843-8800.

Young farmers

Youngsters in the daycare program at the YWCA of Western Wayne County, in Inkster, received a bit of farming experience earlier this month by helping plant a garden. The children planted corn and tomatoes behind the parking lot, on the YWCA grounds. The plants began as seedlings inside at the Y, and the children will watch the progress of their crops. Kevon Latimer, 5 (left), marks the corn row with a stake made earlier. Meanwhile, teacher Michelle Smoter and Mary McDonough, 5, carefully plant the seedlings. Baby can be dog's friend

Will your dog get jealous if you introduce a new baby into your home? (We're talking "human" baby, not baby puppy.)

More often than not, there will be a bit of jealousy (at first) on the part of the dog. After all, the dog has been the family "baby" all this time, and, suddenly, a new baby intrudes on his territory. It's no different than the rivalry and insecurity sometimes displayed when the mother of the house returns from the hospital with a second newborn. The first child often resents the new sister or brother.

As far as the dog goes, the best way to avoid jealousy and, therefore, rebelliousness from the dog on account of the baby is to figuratively "give" the baby to the dog. Now, before you get excited, let me explain . . .

When Mom comes home from the hospital, she should sit on the couch or chair, while holding the baby. The dog will be excited at her returning home and act energetically. Simultaneously, the dog will begin sniffing at the baby. Don't stop him from doing this! The dog will not do any harm to the baby. Let him sniff as long as he wants. While he's busy investigating the new "person," Mom should be petting him calmly and lovingly and—in a tender, soothing tone—tell the dog that this is his new baby, too, and that the baby is just for him. (The dog will believe this!) The dog will lose interest for a while but will return many times to sniff again. When the baby is placed in the crib, take the dog along into the nursery and have him lay near the crib.

As long as he feels needed, he won't become rebellious in order to get attention if he feels the child has taken from him.

When grandparents, friends and relatives visit and want to see the baby, be certain they give the dog a pat and a bit of attention first, in order to avoid any newfound protectiveness from the dog.

If this baby-introducing period is done correctly and sincerely—and if you remember your pup has feelings too—all will go smoothly. By having the dog play an important part in the baby's homecoming and feedings and baths, a bond will develop between the two that no one will break.

You'll rest assured the dog will be a constant companion to your growing child, and the interaction between the two will be beneficial to them both.

A SALUTE to SUMMER

Memorial Day patriots
mark start of season

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Memorial Day, more so than any other weekend, unleashes the mayhem and merriment of summer. Especially in western Wayne County.

The three-day weekend, weather permitting, seems to drag us from our cozy winter nests and plunge us into the world of outdoor activities, picnics and gardening.

Weather has a great deal to do with whether or not a successful seasonal transition is made. A rainy Memorial Day weekend could ruin the cycle of amateur athletics and cook-out fanciers.

A bright sunny weekend, on the other hand, results in a harmonious and on-schedule summer.

It's too early for television weather people to predict the conditions for the last weekend in May. So, we turn to the oldest weather reference around.

The Farmer's Almanac, in the 196th year of publication, uses a seven-year cycle method for predicting weather.

For Memorial Day, the writers of the almanac predict a mixed bag. Temperatures will be warm, but rain is likely.

Summer weather for the southern portion of Michigan is not promised to be "all wine and roses." The almanac is predicting a cooler and slightly wetter summer for Michigan.

While this may douse the plans of many sun-worshippers and outdoor enthusiasts, don't let it prevent you from enjoying some travel. Florida, southeast coastal states and the West Coast are all expected to experience average to above average temperatures for the summer. How did they get all the luck?

Tourism groups in Michigan, however, are counting on Michiganders to stick around and invite friends.

Officials from the American Automobile Association of Michigan is predicting a 4-percent increase in tourism here during the summer season, Memorial Day through Labor Day.

Nearly $8.3 million was spent by tourists last year in the state, a 7-percent increase compared to 1986.

AAA officials say hotel and food rates in the state have increased only slightly in the past year, and fuel costs have remained relatively constant.

Brian Potter, manager of AAA Touring, said the summer tourism season is already off to a good start, with lodging reservations on the increase 5-percent for the first four months of the year. State campground reservations have increased 14 percent.

And for those who were too antsy to save vacation time for the summer, Vic Chiasson, of the Wayne County parks department, said not to fret.

There is plenty to do right here at the county parks, he said.

Chiasson said the Memorial Day weekend is only second to the July Fourth weekend in use of the parks.

The most popular program in the area, Chiasson said, is the Saturday in the Park event, which continues through the first weekend in September. Hines Drive is blocked off for six miles each Saturday so residents can enjoy bike riding, jogging and just walking.

Memorial meaning fades into summer

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

During the past several years, Memorial Day has marked the beginning of the season of backyard barbecues, swimming pool parties and camping trips plus the annual 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway race. However, recent attention has begun to focus more on the traditional meaning of the holiday.

Community observances of the holiday have dwindled from the large ceremonies staged by veterans and civic groups following the major wars, but there is evidence that interest in the observance of the holiday is on the increase.

Sparkling interest in the holiday has been an increased focus on the veterans of the Vietnam conflict and the memorials dedicated to them—local and national. Several recent films plus a weekly television series also have brought the Vietnam battles to the attention of the viewers.

Ben Helmke, director of Tamson Center counseling agency, credited the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C., with producing a "fantastic reaction" among those who have visited it. He noted that it is the first memorial dedicated to the men who fought in the war, and it is not strictly dedicated to a specific battle or to a specific leader. The wall of names, he said, is a very personal remembrance and has had a "very powerful impact on those who have viewed it."

Before the ceasefire 15 years ago, 56,244 men were killed and some 300,000 were wounded in Vietnam.

The psychotherapist also noted that the veterans of another undeclared war—the Korean Conflict—are also focusing attention on their past experiences and on the men who fought and died in that conflict.

A Vietnam Veterans Memorial was dedicated in Westland last year, and a memorial garden was established to honor the Vietnam Veterans in Belleville.

When Thomas Gondek opened his office on Main Street in Belleville, he planted a garden at the side of his building "to honor those brave patriots and heroes for freedom and liberty who fought and died in the Vietnam 'War,' and also to those unsung heroes who we miss and love and are classified missing in action. We shall meet you all again someday."

Memorial Day ceremonies today, however, will probably not be the same as those conducted 122 years ago when the graves of Civil War soldiers were decorated with flowers during the first observance at the end of the Civil War. On May 30, 1866, the flags of the Waterloo, N.Y. (the birth

The most popular program in the area, Chiasson said, is the Saturday in the Park event, which continues through the first weekend in September. Hines Drive is blocked off for six miles each Saturday so residents can enjoy bike riding, jogging and just walking.

"It's become really popular for people to pack a picnic lunch and ride their bikes along the path," Chiasson said. "They stop along the road, eat their lunch and move on."

Nearly 150 permits have already been purchased for picnics at the park, according to Chiasson. Permits are necessary for reserving a certain park area. Large family groups and companies often purchase permits so they are assured a large enough area.

Last year, Chiasson said, 800 permits were issued by the Wayne County Parks Department. That is more than 75,000 people using the parks for registered picnics alone.

According to Chiasson, Merriam Hollow, Warrendale, Nankin Mills and Waterford Bend are the most popular picnic areas.

place of the holiday) were flown at half-staff and a parade of veterans and members of civic and fraternal groups marched to the three village cemeteries where ceremonies were conducted. Also in the same year, a group of women honored the graves of both Union and Confederate soldiers who were killed in the Battle of Shiloh, near Columbus, Miss.

The holiday, first known as Decoration Day, is still known by its original name in some parts of the nation. It was celebrated on May 30, until federal legislation changed it to the last Monday of May - the first three-day weekend of the summer season.

It's just diplomatic immunity

sue willert
just desserts

One of the greatest things about my job is the glamour.

Actually, whenever anyone talks about the glamour or excitement of this job, I wonder what they'd do if they saw me here in the newsroom at 3 in the morning wearing makeup I put on 20 hours earlier editing copy in my slippers.

And then I think of the constant and continuing education and knowledge this job provides and the doors that open offering wondrous information and I guess I have to concede, if glamour is being able to find out what you want to know from just about anybody you want to ask, then this is the most glamorous job in the world...even if your feet hurt.

One of the secrets this glamorous career revealed recently was the method of creating one of the most heavenly desserts ever concocted. A diplomat with whom I became acquainted on a press exhibition promised to get this for me nearly a year ago, and bless his little pointed toes (clad in patent leather shoes with bows no less) he did it.

This is a recipe for a cake which is the pride of the Finnish Embassy in Washington, D.C.

Secret almond cake

2 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
Grated rind of one orange
1 cup flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
2 tablespoons cream
1/2 cup butter, melted
1/2 cup slivered almonds

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Beat eggs and sugar until thick and lemon colored. Add orange rind. Sift flour and baking powder together. Stir into egg mixture. Add cream and melted butter. Turn into greased and floured 9-inch pie plate. Sprinkle almonds on top. Bake for 30 to 35 minutes until golden brown.

Topping

2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tablespoon cream

Melt butter and add flour, sugar and cream. Bring to a boil. Cool. Pour over warm cake and spread evenly. Place under a broiler for 3-4 seconds watching very carefully.

Blueberry cake with lemon sauce

1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sour cream
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups blueberries
1/2 cup brown sugar

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with sour cream. Stir in vanilla. Fold in one cup blueberries. Pour half of batter into greased and floured 13x9 inch pan. Cover with remaining berries. Sprinkle with brown sugar and top with remaining batter. Bake for 45-50 minutes. Serve with lemon sauce.

Lemon sauce

1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup cold water
1/2 cup boiling water
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoons butter

Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan. Gradually stir in cold water, then boiling water. Cook until smooth, clear and slightly thickened. Stir in remaining ingredients.

Grandmother was the both teacher of the culinary arts for Sherry Lillie (above). Sherry was only 6 years old when her grandmother taught her how to make biscuits. By age 13, she had mastered the full-course meal and was ready to take on cooking for a family. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Straight from the South

Down-home cooking is a part of the Lillie family heritage

Sherry Lillie learned to cook at just about the same time she learned the alphabet.

Lillie learned her way around the kitchen at the ripe old age of 6 when her grandmother taught her how to make biscuits. Her instructions continued and by the time she was 13, Lillie could produce a full meal without assistance.

"My grandmother taught both me and my sister," Lillie explained. "And back then in Tennessee, we girls worked just as hard as the women did."

Lillie admitted that her early instruction and mastery of the kitchen may account for her lack of desire to cook for a number of years. She also gave up the other skills her grandmother taught her, including quilting and rug making.

"I really didn't cook for a long time," she said. "I guess maybe it was my rebellious side coming out, but for years I just wasn't interested. In just about the last six or seven years though, I realize with everything going on around me, that I already knew how to do a lot of things other people thought were skills. Everything my grandmother taught me seems to be coming back and I'm enjoying it," she said.

Also enjoying Lillie's rejuvenated interest in the kitchen is her husband, Tim. He's not only enjoying her cooking, Lillie said, but has joined her in the kitchen and become a fine cook in his own right.

"We even have some friends and we have a breakfast club. We get together on Sunday mornings and everybody donates something and we experiment with new dishes. Sometimes it's great and sometimes, well, it's not so good. It depends on whose experimenting," the Inkster resident confided.

After her grandmother instilled the basics of biscuit making, she moved on to teaching Lillie the secrets of great pie crusts and fillings and other desserts. From there, on to vegetables and potatoes treated only the way a southern cook knows how.

"We were raised in Waynesborough, Tennessee," Lillie said. You don't get much more southern cooking than that, she admitted. Another part of her childhood education included the making of butter which was part of her duties. "Grandma would ask 'Who's turn is it to churn next?' and all the kids would run and hide," Lillie recalled.

"We were strict Baptists in a small southern town. Cooking was about all the entertainment girls got," she added.

"I can still remember some of the things my grandma could do with a little dough, some sugar, cinnamon and milk. She could come up with the most wonderful treats just using her imagination. We called those butter rolls and I still remember how they'd taste," Lillie said. "I think my grandma taught me how to make things taste good and my mother taught me to make them look good."

Lillie is planning to learn cake decorating next, emulating her mother who lives in Fenton, MI. "She makes the most beautiful wedding cakes. When I used to live with her, I would draw the decorations on the cakes with a toothpick and she would follow with the icing. We did some really creative things," she said.

Lillie's advice to novice cooks is to be willing to try new things. "Always experiment. If it sounds good, try it. You know the feeling when you're hungry but you don't know what you want? Take some egg noodles, some bacon or sausage, some mushrooms and a little white sauce, put them in a casserole and bake them at 350 degrees for a half hour. You'll be surprised at how good it will taste."

"Take whatever you have on hand and whatever sounds good and mix it together in a casserole. I've made some great ones, and some not-so-great," she said. "And keep a lot of spices on hand. That's something else that I'm just discovering, the difference spices make. Taste the spice so you know the flavor it will give food, then use it," she advised.

"Even plain pepper can make a big difference. I have a friend who has been trying to learn to make fried potatoes to taste like mine. She's tried and tried and couldn't get them to come out. I finally asked her if she salted and peppered them and she admitted she didn't. That made all the difference," Lillie said.

As for her husband's culinary skills, Lillie is proud of him, although she is adamant that he won't completely change her cooking style. He has discovered health foods and "is a little too health conscious for me," Lillie said. She does appreciate the fact that when she works late, however, he has dinner on the table for her when she gets home.

If he were to prepare the favorite meal of this southern cook, however, most cholesterol-conscious dieters would faint. Lillie loves fried pork chops, mashed potatoes, green beans and sourdough rolls. And this time of year, she said, dessert would have to be strawberry shortcake.

Sherry's country-fried chicken

1 to 2 cut-up broiler or frying chickens
2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cup Italian bread crumbs
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup bacon drippings or cooking oil
3 tablespoons milk

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Wash, skin and vein chicken. In a medium-sized bowl, beat eggs and milk together. Coat chicken pieces in mixture and roll in bread crumbs, salt and pepper which have been mixed together until evenly coated. Using a large frying pan, heat the oil at medium stove temperature. Brown chicken to golden brown on both sides and remove to baking sheet. Bake for 25 minutes at 350 degrees, turning once.

Miracle Moms: 5 residents win in Mother's Day contest

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

From numerous nominations throughout the areas served by Associated Newspapers, six finalists have been named in the Second annual Associated Newspapers Mother of the Year Contest. A biography of what makes these mothers so special follows.

Diane Hanson Canton Township

It took Diane Hanson, 38, five years and medical help to become a mother for the first time. After that, there was no stopping her. She and her husband, Barton, also 38, are now the parents of six children. The result of their efforts and medical intervention are Lora, 9; Eric, 7; Lisa, 6; Jeffrey, 3; Scott, 22 months; and Leah, 3 1/2 months.

In nominating her mother for the contest, Lora said, "She helps me through my troubles. She is very nice. And she takes care of me and the six kids."

Hanson said, "I think it's wonderful and I'm so proud that she wanted to nominate me. I'm surprised I was even chosen (as a finalist). It's fun being nominated."

With a bachelor of science degree from Western Michigan University, where she majored in medical technology, she said being a mom is demanding, wonderful and rewarding.

The family, she said, is very close and always has been - even when the new editions keep arriving.

Reading, fishing, camping and bicycling with her children are some of the hobbies she enjoys. When she is not at home, she sells educational toys part-time for Discovery Toys.

Beatrice Mary Backhaus Romulus

As her daughter Julie Gibson said, in her nominating letter "Please understand, this is not your ordinary mother of the year nomination."

Last year at age 50, Backhaus died from a bout with cancer. But, Gibson said, "I think she is the best mother that ever lived."

She said her mother always thought about other people before herself. Even when, as Gibson described, Backhaus was receiving radiation treatment for cancer in her last year, "she was still thinking of us first."

SPECIAL MOMS

Gerry Wyrabkiewicz

Diane Hanson

Janice Miles

Beatrice Backhaus

Sheila Hoover

Backhaus is survived by her husband Mel and three children, Julie, Gayle and David and three grandchildren, Bernie, Jason and Andrea.

Sheila Hoover Westland

Not only is Sheila Hoover, 41, the mother of Elizabeth Hoover, she is her friend as well.

That's what Elizabeth said of her mother when she nominated her for the contest.

"My mom is not just my mom, she is my friend. She is always there to lend a hand, ear or advice. Warm, caring, compassionate and loving are just a few words to describe her."

And Sheila said, "I think it's real nice that she did that. It's a nice honor for my daughter to do that."

She is married to Jerry, 41, and works as a lunchroom supervisor at Temple Christian School, Inkster. She mentioned also that her and her daughter are "friends as well." But, she added the family is extremely close.

Janice Miles Belleville

Janice Miles, 36, was nominated for the Mother of the Year Contest by her oldest daughter Cherie, 12, simply because, "She does a lot of nice things for me and likes to take the places I want to go," Cherie noted.

Aside from being a finalist in the contest, Miles is the mother of three daughters, Cherie, 12; Rebekah, 10, and Sabrina, 8, and is married to John Miles, 38. When not at home, she works as an office manager at the Girlstown Foundation, Belleville.

She explained her husband has been a "Mr. Mom" for about five years.

"He's always home from work before I get home. He always cooks the dinner he's a good cook and likes to do it. I've cooked about five times in the last five years."

But aside from having a "Mr. Mom," she said the family is very close.

"It's a real good family. We have a good relationship with each other."

Gerry Wyrabkiewicz Wayne

Wyrabkiewicz, 35, is the neighborhood mom, as she put it. She was nominated by daughter-in-law Leona Wyrabkiewicz, of Wayne.

Oakwood Vs. Cancer

If you don't want to quit smoking, you won't.
But if you want to quit, you can. And we can help.

You've seen and heard all the warnings. You know that smoking is harmful. People around you may even have started to reject you. Perhaps you don't even enjoy the habit anymore.

Well, it's never too soon to quit. And Oakwood Hospital can get you on your way, with the "Smokeless"® stop-smoking program. A stop-smoking program recommended in the Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health. It can save lives by changing the habits of people like you. We've seen it work. So don't put it off any longer. Come to our free introductory meeting. See how you can quit the smoking habit for good. Just call 278-5151 for details.

Another good idea in the fight against cancer: regular checkups with your physician. Early detection results in more effective and less radical treatment of most forms of cancer. Oakwood's oncology capabilities include state-of-the-art diagnostic tools-CT Scan, nuclear medicine, mammography, ultrasound, laboratory test, chemical analysis and microscopic exams. If treatment is required, we offer advanced surgery, radiation therapy and chemotherapy.

But if you smoke, you can start your own campaign against lung cancer.

Right now. Call the Oakwood Department of Community Health at 278-5151. And enroll in a summer session of the "Smokeless" program.

It costs $155 for seven classes, approximately 11 hours of instruction.

Glenn students net GMC trucks

General Motors Corporation donated 10 light-duty trucks to school in three Michigan cities, including John Glenn High School in Westland.

The other two Michigan schools were Macomb Community College in Warren and Schoolcraft in Livonia. The 1987 and 1988 model GMC vehicles are damaged trucks donated to the schools for students to work on and use to learn automotive mechanics.

"The intent is to make an otherwise unfortunate occurrence into something good that helps the community," said a spokesman for the GMC Truck Division. "These GMC trucks will provide 'hands-on' training for future machanicists. We're very pleased to have found good homes for them."

State investments top $513 million

Michigan investments of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., Milwaukee, jumped to more than $513 million, the company reported. The figure is $142 million, or 38.3 percent above the 1986 amount in the state. Michigan ranks seventh in the nation in the company investment total. Michigan investments include $143 million in real estate and mortgages on residential, business and institutional, and farm properties and $369 million in stocks and bonds of Michigan industries and governmental units. Northwestern investments include the Westland shopping center.

Savings bonds rate at 6.9%

The semi-annual market-based interest rate for United States Savings Bonds, in effect from May through October 1988, has been set at 6.9 percent, the U.S. Treasury Department announced. Bonds must be held five years or longer to receive market-based rates. Series E Bonds, Savings Notes and Series EE Bonds issued through Oct. 30, 1983, are now receiving market-based yields retroactive to issue date or their first interest accrual date on or after Nov. 1, 1982, whichever is later. The public may call 1-800-US BONDS to get current rates and other information.

Standard Federal leading lenders

Standard Federal Bank led all other lenders in the four-county area in recordings of residential mortgage loans of $250,000 or less for March. As a result of this and the prior two months activity, Standard Federal was the leading home mortgage lender for the first quarter of 1988 in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Washtenaw counties. The Lawyers Title Insurance Corporation Mortgage Summary Report stated 740 home mortgages were recorded by Standard Federal in March, totaling $47,363,538. The banks total recordings for the first quarter of 1988 were $120,673,684.

New center open for health care

Total Health Care, a tri-county area health maintenance organization, has added a new center, Health Stop Medical Center, Wyandotte. The facility is affiliated with Health Stop Medical Center in Lincoln Park. The center in Wyandotte has nine physicians. Complete medical services are provided at the center. It is located at 1500 Eureka Road. Hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sundays.

Honors: Northside Hardware owners lauded

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

Phil and Sid Kaplan, long-time owners of Northside Hardware, in Wayne, were selected as business people of the year by the Wayne Chamber of Commerce for 1988.

Phil, who is currently part owner with his son Robert, was pleased with the announcement.

"We are pretty honored to receive the award," said Phil, whose brother Sid is now retired. "It's been wonderful doing business in Wayne, and we hope to continue to do business here in the future."

"They have survived for a long time and have built something that any community would be proud to have," said Bill Garrett, president of the chamber.

"They will go out of there way to help someone, and this personalized service is what makes Northside so special."

The annual award is given to a businessperson in the city, based on service to the public and to the community. The 1988 award was given Thursday, during the monthly meeting of chamber members.

"We looked for someone who not only owns a business but also gets involved in community projects," said Bob Beeny, chairman of the selection committee.

"It was not an easy selection. We had a lot of good business people to choose from. Phil and Sid have been here for a long time, and they have supported service groups and community projects every year."

Northside Hardware, which is one of the largest True-Value stores in the country, is located on Wayne Road, north of Michigan Avenue.

The small, corner hardware store has expanded several times since it first opened in 1956. It now takes up an entire block.

"They have brought Northside from a tiny hardware store to one of the largest in Wayne County," said Garrett.

And, despite the growth in size, the personalized service has always remained.

"They know most people who come into their store by name, and they will help someone find whatever they are looking for," Garrett said.

Past winners of the annual award include Jack Demmer, Bill Mulholland and Ron Cobb.

'Humor in stone' Cemetery not for depression

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

"Smart Alex - A car, a miss, a kiss, a curve, I kissed the miss and missed the curve."

These words are inscribed on a tombstone at the United Memorial Gardens, in Plymouth. It's not a real tombstone, it's just one of many messages that cemetery owner Ed Wensley wants to get across to the teens who tour the cemetery.

United Memorial Gardens is an unusual idea in cemeteries. Wensley's goal was to create "a place of quiet" beauty rather than a depressing place.

"Humor in Stone" is the newest addition to the cemetery. About 30 headstones featuring humorous, yet thought provoking, messages about sex, drugs and other moral issues are a part of the display. Most are the original thoughts of Wensley and his son, Del, who is now the general manager.

The headstones are in a small garden area with a marker labeled "Facts of Life."

"The morals of young people are so bad these days," Wensley said. "I just hope these messages stick with them."

Wensley said about 315 groups have toured the 126-acre cemetery in the past

business profile

"It's more than just a place to bury the dead," Wensley said. "After all, the cemetery is more for the living."

United Memorial Gardens is also the site of a memorial to the victims of the Flight 255 disaster at Metro Airport. A statue of young Cecilia Chihon on a swing stands in the center of the memorial where the remains of 11 victims were buried.

There was some controversy about the remains being buried there, as none of the family members were notified. There was a small memorial service at the time of the burial, with only Wensley, a priest, a minister and a rabbi present.

Wensley said a more formal memorial service will be planned for the one-year anniversary of the crash.

Another popular attraction at the cemetery is an exact replica of the Old Testament Tabernacle, constructed on the cemetery property.

Tours of the cemetery are conducted every day from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The cemetery is located at 4800 Curtis Road, west of Ann Arbor Road, in Plymouth.

Politics influences markets

Actions by the Federal Reserve Board in the financial markets have been confusing to all participants. However, there may be some logic to this disorder.

Allen Greenspan, chairman of the board, along with other Republican appointees, are aware of the upcoming elections. The Fed would be criticized if it increased the discount rate in June, only to lower it in August.

A better solution? Allow the Fed funds to move higher, forcing banks to lower their prime rates, while maintaining that inflation is at acceptable levels and will be lower in late summer. This could set the stage to lower the discount rate in July and fault the banking industry for the error in judgment.

Bonds and interest-sensitive prices are slowing their decline. Prices will remain flat, while waiting for further Fed action.

Gold and silver prices will edge higher, as buyers feel the need for a hedge against possible inflation.

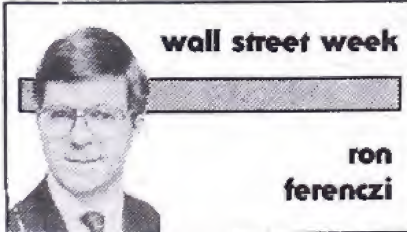

This week, the short-term traders will be cautious sellers - but will be aggressive buyers if we experience an early session market break to the downside.

Intermediate- and long-term traders will not be active participants in this session. They have large cash reserves and will wait for better buying opportunities. I see the market opening mixed this week, but it will continue to be under selling pressure. Heavy selling early in the session could bring the market under the influence of computer trading programs that signal oversold conditions. If this were to occur, it would slow the market decent and would do little to change the overall direction.

At this point, it is going to be difficult to change this negative momentum. Buying enthusiasm would have to dramatically improve. A lower discount rate could do it.

See you in July for the fireworks! INVESTMENT SPECIAL: With interest rates going up gradually during the past several weeks and inflation the watchword of the day, now may be the time to consider real estate limited partnerships that can offer you quarterly interest checks for current income.
